REGULATION "A" OF THE FCI

June 1 2018

ARTICLE 1: AIMS

1.1 The aim of the European Cup is to promote the use of English Spaniels by using a high-level competition to showcase their aptitude for hunting, while allowing dog-lovers and hunters to meet at a major international trial.

ARTICLE 2: GENERAL PROVISIONS

2.1 The general provisions are those in Regulation “A” of the FCI for English Spaniels.

2.2 The competition will take place over two consecutive days of field trials, using natural game as much as possible.

ARTICLE 3: ORGANISATION

3.2 The choice of organising country is decided by a majority vote of the delegates of countries using regulation “A”; in the event there is no majority, the President of the Commission will have the casting vote.

3.4 The FCI Commission for English Spaniels then delegates the organisation of the event to a committee to be formed in the country that will hold the event.

3.5 This organising committee will be responsible for all initiatives required to stage the event.

3.2 Any country interested in organising the Cup will, before the end of June, send members of the Commission a file setting out:

3.6 The country selected is free to organise national trials before the European Cup; failing this, a training ground will be made available to competitors the day before the trials.

ARTICLE 4: PARTICIPATION

4.1 A country can be represented by a single dog in individual competition. The only dogs allowed to compete are those registered with the studbooks or the appendix to the studbooks of an FCI member organisation or contract partner as well as those registered with the studbooks or appendix to the studbooks of a non FCI member organisation with which the FCI has entered into a cooperation agreement of mutual recognition of studbooks (AKC, KC, CKC).

- In the Cockers and Other varieties teams, each country will be represented by two to four dogs.
- A reserve dog may be nominated, provided that this has been notified in advance in accordance with the present rules.

4.3 The following qualify for participation in the European Cup: English Spaniels from countries affiliated to the FCI whose abilities have been verified by the organising committee, on condition that both dog and owner, on the date of the trials in the Cup, have held the nationality of the country they represent for at least one year.

4.4 The handler can have a different nationality to that of the owner and the dog, but he can only act for one country.

4.5 A handler can only act in a single series in one of the two categories.

4.6 Each team taking part in the European Cup will be represented by a team captain directly appointed by the country.
